Precision Machining Technology (2nd Edition) View more editions 82 % (60 ratings) for this book. Machining is a process in which a machine is used to perform a task i.e., to change the size (or) to modify the shape by removing a piece of material. Machining is generally carried out on a metal piece. Since, cutting a piece of metal manually to certain level of accuracy is not a feasible process, we rely on machines.
