In set theory, the union (denoted by  $\hat{\cup}$ ) of a collection of sets is the set of all elements in the collection. It is one of the fundamental operations through which sets can be combined and related to each other. For explanation of the symbols used in this article, refer to the table of mathematical symbols

If  $x$  and  $y$  are sets, then there exists a set which contains  $x$  and  $y$  as elements.  $\hat{\in} \hat{\in} \hat{f} (\hat{\wedge} \hat{\S} \hat{\wedge})$ . The axiom schema of specification must be used to reduce this to a set with exactly these two elements. The axiom of pairing is part of Z, but is redundant in ZF because it follows from the axiom schema of replacement, if we are given a set with at least two elements.

Box and Cox (1964) developed the transformation. Estimation of any Box-Cox parameters is by maximum likelihood. Box and Cox (1964) offered an example in which the data had the form of survival times but the underlying biological structure was of hazard rates, and the transformation identified this.
