A log house, or log building, is a structure built with horizontal logs interlocked at the corners by notching. Logs may be round, squared or hewn to other shapes, either handcrafted or milled. The term "log cabin" generally refers to a smaller, more rustic log house, such as a hunting cabin in the woods, that may or may not have electricity or plumbing.

The two BEST things about the digital Registry Procedures Manual are that the manual will be updated two times a year instead of on an annual basis -- automatically and seamlessly -- and the digital manual format will allow you to keyword search for what you need! If you're half as excited about the new format of the Registry Manual as we are, there are a few things you should know:

The History of construction overlaps many other fields like structural engineering and relies on other branches of science like archaeology, history and architecture to investigate how the builders lived and recorded their accomplishments. Those fields allow us to analyse constructed buildings and other structures built since prehistory, the tools used and the different uses of building materials.
